

HKIE Building Division 15th Annual Seminar Challenges of Building Development in metropolis

10th March 2016 (Thursday), 0900 – 1700
Theatre 2, Hong Kong Convention & Exhibition Centre

The building industry has come a long way in its efforts to achieve sustainable development. The rapid developments in technology and the general awareness of global environmental impacts have elevated people's expectation for better environmental health, human comfort and economic growth. The constant rise of demands has brought new challenges to the engineering design and facilities management in metropolis. This year's annual seminar provides an opportunity for professionals and experts to highlight and discuss the major challenges of building development in cities.
